STANDARD CITATION (APA)

Lemish, P. (1981). The 'Hanukah Bush': A qualitative study of cultural identity and assimilation.

ABSTRACT & RESEARCH OVERVIEW

Early foundational qualitative fieldwork examining Jewish-American cultural assimilation, ritual syncretism, and the negotiation of minority religious identity in secular American environments.

KEY FINDINGS & THEORETICAL PRAXIS

Employs deep ethnographic interviewing to trace how hybrid festive symbols reflect domestic negotiation of belonging, identity anxiety, and cultural boundary maintenance.
